

Cassidy Powell

My training in Business Technology, microsoft office, and core skills in writing gave me superior leverage with my job placement . I've demonstrated some of my experiences with AT&T, Cooper Tire and Rubber Company, People Ready and as a truck driver.

Cooper Tire and Rubber Company was a laborious administrative position. Where I used a rf scanner and paper logs to keep up with my loads. Here I added, subtracted, trained, and worked with others.

As a customer service representative with AT&T, I was given the experience in rationalizing with customers, handling customer inquiries , and engaging in sales.

These two positions have given me 6 years in an administrative field to demonstrate my abilities.

Another role I fulfilled was with People Ready working with many construction companies. A very laborious task where I had helped with various extractions, unloading and hanging fixtures, housekeeping skills, and given the opportunity to work in construction.

Now as a truck driver I am working well with others, communicating with business's, logging my trip information, and following driving instructions. I'm always talking with someone and keeping a professional behavior is key to success in truck driving.
